"ALTA's theme for this year's annual show is to protect, and it's never been more important for the title industry," said CEO Argun Kilic. "I'm very excited to be attending this important show and discussing our AI-powered solutions with title company owners. ALTA ONE is the most important event for the title insurance industry. Each year, it unites all ALTA members in one place to get inspired, gain knowledge and work together to protect the property rights of homebuyers. ALTA ONE features stimulating speakers, dynamic networking opportunities and a forum for keeping up with best practices and regulation changes. This year, expect to see some James Bond/Mission:

Impossible style fun thrown into the agenda.

ALTA expects to deliver insights on current regulations and pilot programs affecting the title industry, real estate wire fraud and other schemes, the economy and employee retention challenges. We agree with the sentiment expressed on the conference website: attending ALTA ONE in Colorado Springs, CO, and collaborating with more than 1,000 other title 'secret' agents will leave you feeling supported and secure as we navigate these challenges."

"There is a reason Areal.ai has received ALTA's endorsement for the solutions we offer the title industry," said Head of Sales Bill Hajjar. "Our software has processed millions of pages and proved its value over and over again. Our new offerings will add even more value to the industry. I can't wait to show them to attendees of this show."
