I look forward to bringing my expertise to Miami and collaborating with the fantastic team here. We're all on the same page. We only utilize the most advanced technology, Greyledge Technologies, to process every biologic we inject. This is a unique approach because now we know exactly the cell counts and I'm able to customize them to each patient. This data is collected, attached to the patient and their procedure type, then they report how they're feeling. We need this data so we can adapt treatments to continually provide better outcomes. Together, I am confident we will influence how Regenerative Medicine is perceived and delivered to our orthopedic patients and community."

Patients and referring physicians can now schedule consultations with Dr. DeWald at the Karli Center. His joining is set to enrich the patient experience with cutting-edge regenerative treatments.
