TULSA, OKLAHOMA, UNITED STATES, October 26, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

"Relationships and communities are still an active theme in my new work. The idea of coming together for a unified thought, purpose, or action, is powerful. The idea of the whole that seems to be greater than the sum of its parts is beautiful and inspiring to me. This work is crossing new lines pushing into a more diverse and playful realm. I have loosened or removed some of the previous rules or constraints that I navigated my work within, now more than ever utilizing color, varying textures, the old with new, and large and small, in more of a freed expression. I still love pushing the boundaries of material and scale in my work which has helped to unlock a new understanding of my creativity, relationship changes, goals and dreams, and my outlook on the future."
