LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, October 12, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Truck accidents can be some of the most devastating. Representing you aggressively, I can find who's liable and help you to receive maximum compensation.”

Belal Hamideh

Belal Hamideh, a truck accident attorney in Long Beach, has long helped victims who were injured in cases involving 18-wheelers, big rigs, etc. As California's truck accident fatality rate rises, Belal stands ready to help even more victims.

According to the California Office of Traffic Safety, truck accidents involving fatalities have, in the most recent years of statistics available, numbered no less than 305. In 2019, that number went as high as 344. With 365 days in a year, that is nearly an accident every single day.

The California OTS was designed to provide “innovative, evidence-based education and enforcement programs and technologies designed to improve road safety. The OTS evaluates all potential problems to make sure California addresses current and future traffic safety needs.”

In all accident cases, Belal Hamideh conducts a thorough investigation to find the parties responsible. For cases involving trucks, many parties could be potentially liable. Drivers may be liable, but in past cases, the companies that hired the drivers were also liable, as were those who loaded a truck involved in an accident, those who worked on the truck, and other parties.
