Every resident deserves to have choices, privacy, and the option of community engagement. Our emphasis is to provide residents with choices catering to their preferences and individuality.”

David Smith*

The event will honor The Gatesworth’s past, present and future, as well as launch its new magazine the scene @ the gatesworth along with a commemorative video.

Established in 1988 by a group of forward-thinking entrepreneurs, The Gatesworth was envisioned as a community that prioritized residents' well-being and autonomy.

One of those visionaries, co-owner David Smith, reflects on the initial concept, stating "We believed every resident deserved to have choices, privacy, and the option of community engagement." Smith added, "Our emphasis was—and still is—on providing residents with a myriad of choices that catered to their preferences and respected their individuality."

The Gatesworth's guiding philosophy "The answer is yes. What is the question?" emphasizes the community's dedication to meeting residents' evolving needs and preferences.

A key to its longevity is The Gatesworth's continual focus on resident feedback. Co-owner Charlie Deutsch emphasized the significance of feedback, stating "It's indispensable. We seek out residents' opinions and insights continuously. Their input helps us maintain our high standards."

This commitment has garnered The Gatesworth local and national recognition, including being continually named to U.S. News & World Report's list of "Best Senior Living Communities."

Looking toward the future, co-owner Bob Leonard had this to add, "We will continue to evolve, to become an even better community, by adhering to the core principles that have guided us through the first 35 years. The Gatesworth will continue to improve—and will continue to be an exceptional community for years to come."
