

Tobi Shinobi's AR Infused Photography Takes Times Square Thanks to Big Win at MvVO Ad Art Show

Tobi Shinobi, an abstract mixed media photographer, wins at this year's MVVO Ad Art Show, casting a light on Deybruyar, a pioneering creative consultancy.

NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK, CHICAGO, October 20, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tobi Shinobi wins the MVVO Ad Art Show with a well-deserved victory. Tobi Shinobi is renowned for his varied portfolio, which includes high-profile events, product photography, architecture, interviews, and ground-breaking studies in AI.

Two of his pieces were selected by a panel of acclaimed individuals from the arts community making him one of the MvVO Ad Art Show's three winners. Tobi's featured work, Gram-atically Correct, skillfully merges actual and digital worlds, letting spectators to fully experience the exciting world of Augmented Reality and leaving them with an element of surprise. This victory serves as a springboard for what is certain to be a successful creative career and serves as a testament to Tobi's creative prowess and his capacity to blur the barriers between artist and audience.

The MVVO Ad Art Show, founded by Maria Van Vlodrop, is a renowned and cutting-edge art exhibition that was first presented at Sotheby's NYC and is currently in its sixth year. In keeping with the heritage of illustrious artists like Warhol and Rosenquist, the event highlights the vital contributions of artists who got their start in the industry in advertising but with a passion for fine art. “

Gram-atically Correct is a very interesting and captivating project. I love seeing the photos come to life. The voiceover is perfection. It feels like I am watching a mini docu-series.”
