

United States Senatorial Candidate Denice Gary-Pandol Calls Out Her Newest Opponent Steve Garvey

BAKERSFIELD, CA, UNITED STATES, October 23, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the highly competitive race for the U.S. Senate seat in California, Denice Gary-Pandol called out her newest opponent, Steve Garvey, in a statement released today. Gary-Pandol has been campaigning for the past two years, while Garvey announced his bid in October 2023.

“For the past 24 months, I’ve been traveling throughout the state, listening to the challenges of our citizens, and sharing real solutions that will make California affordable again...great again,” pointed out Denice Gary-Pandol. “Where has Steve Garvey been? Where are his solutions/answers to the critical issues facing us today?”

As a Middle East Specialist, university educator, and the only candidate who has held top-secret clearances, Denice Gary-Pandol is not new to the political arena. In fact, she was the first to declare her Senatorial candidacy in July 2021 and the only candidate who has been traveling statewide articulating clear stances on the economy, education, and national security.

Gary-Pandol pointed out, “Unlike Steve Garvey who gives general statements on critical issues, I am committed to making California affordable and safe again. We must empower parents again through a Parents' Bill of Rights and end transgender and critical race theory instruction in grades K-12. I’ve listened to parents throughout our state. This is what they’re asking for, and I’m here to make it happen.”

Proposals by Gary-Pandol include solutions to address the energy crisis by advocating for legislation in Washington to protect and expand the petroleum and natural gas industries, as well as ending what she calls an “artificial water crisis” in California by mandating annual water infrastructure projects and making rainwater capture systems lawful.

“I hear some people calling Garvey a RINO - a Republican in name only. He may have voted for Trump in the last two elections, but the truth is that Garvey is a moderate at best. No real solutions and no political experience,” stated Gary-Pandol. “I’ve been looking for Garvey at local events or the GOP Convention, but he’s nowhere to be found. He refused to enter the race until now to focus on raising PAC money. Maybe this is his opportunity to get out of retirement and add something to his resume at 74 years old.”

As a United States Senator, Denice Gary-Pandol is firmly committed to a comprehensive set of policies, including:

- Supporting effective policies for national security.
- Ending California's artificial, man-made water crisis.
- Bringing back America's energy independence/dominance - a national security issue.
- Ending inflation and deregulating the economy by cutting bureaucracies and the jobs of bureaucrats that run them, as well as passing legislation out of Washington that lowers tax rates and ends burdensome regulations.
- Making tax cuts permanent for the middle class and lower the corporate tax rate - necessary for economic prosperity and national security.

- Empowering law enforcement to make neighborhoods safe.
- Ending so-called "social justice reforms" that are soft on crime.
- Standing for legal immigration while securing the border to end illegal immigration and human trafficking - illegal immigrants drive down wages for the working poor.
- Delivering on school choice for every child.
- Working to secure voter integrity policies and procedures.
- Establishing Opportunity Zones in poor communities - bring corporate investments and jobs into depressed areas.
- Vigorously upholding America's founding principles while strongly opposing critical race theory.

Denice Gary-Pandol is a United States Senatorial Candidate from California with a wealth of knowledge and experience in education, the economy, and national security issues. As the only candidate who has held top secret clearances, she is dedicated to promoting the interests of the United States and its allies.
