2024 SUV of the Year, Chevrolet Blazer EV

MotorTrend judges agreed the Blazer EV has real presence, with bold, chiseled body lines and a sleek, modern design. However, good design isn't only about aesthetics; it encompasses sensible, useful functionality throughout the vehicle. The Blazer EV delivers an engaging driving experience, adeptly navigating curves thanks to its well-balanced center of gravity. Notably, the dual-motor RS test vehicle, assessed by MotorTrend, showcases an EPA-certified range of 279 miles. Furthermore, depending upon the trim level, the Blazer EV is equipped with DC public fast-charging capability, offering a rapid charge of up to 190 kW, a feature Chevrolet claims can extend the range by an impressive 78 miles in just 10 minutes.
