About the Author

Growing up in Olympia, Washington, her life took a unique turn as she was adopted by her parents when they were in their forties. Their lifelong wish was for her to reconnect with her biological family, and that journey began at the age of 18 when she successfully located her birth mother. It was during this time that an unexpected opportunity arose when her birth mother's best friend offered her a position as a title representative in California.

Over the years, she excelled in this role and was eventually offered the chance to become an owner of the title company, achieving remarkable success at a young age. At just 23, she purchased a condo in Brentwood, showcasing her entrepreneurial spirit and determination.

She also made a lasting impact on the real estate industry by creating Caravan Xpress, a platform that revolutionized how realtors conducted business. While her innovation thrived, success also brought unwanted attention in the form of defamation from envious individuals. She took legal action to protect her reputation, including securing a gag order against one persistent detractor.

Balancing her career with single parenthood, she raised her son, DJ, who graduated with honors and caught the eye of Bill Pinkert, a former Yankee professional, who recognized DJ's natural talent in baseball. The prospect of joining the Yankees beckoned, but an unfortunate injury altered his path.

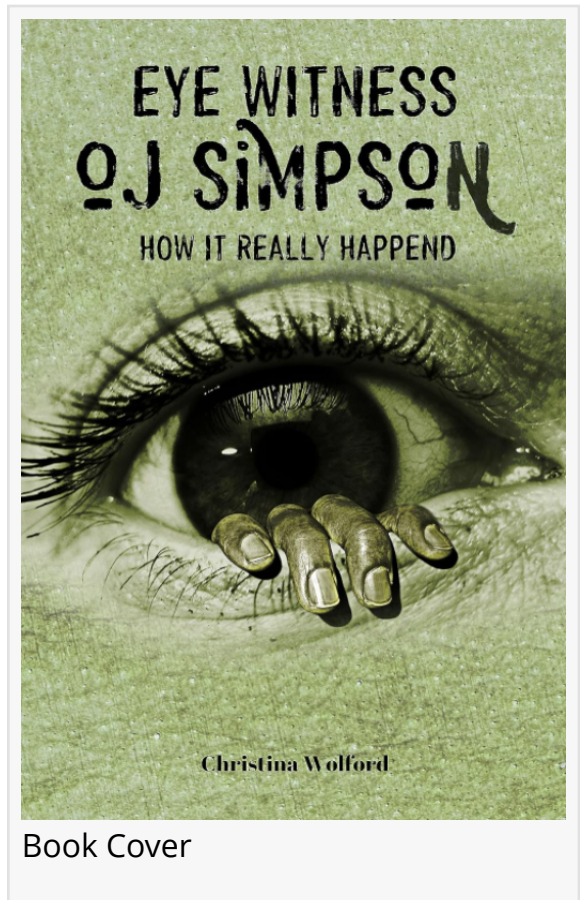

Despite the ongoing challenges of defamation, she is determined to share her story in the hope of dispelling misconceptions. Her journey, like that of her sister, is a testament to hard work, integrity, and resilience—showcasing the essence of good, down-to-earth people who strive diligently to make a positive impact.
