“As with my previous recordings, the flute represents the traveler journeying to new places with each breath—allowing the listener to discover a new sense of self, calm and ease. This time the journey is through the cosmos,” reflects Licater.

Music writer Jonathan Widran The JW VIBE notes, “Ann creates a sonic dreamscape that gives wing to our celestial imagination.”

Between the Stars—a collection of 14 meditative tracks—showcases Licater’s distinct artistry on an array of world flutes including Native American, Native American-style, folk, silver and silver alto as well as piano and crystal bowls with improvisational jazz, New Age and ambient influences. Licater serves as executive producer, co-producer, composer, publisher, artist and indie label owner continuing her expansion into world flute-based Contemporary Instrumental and soul-soothing New Age music to help listeners find inner peace and well-being.

“The album is a 45-minute meditative journey—something I love to encourage since we all need time to center ourselves,” reflects Licater.

Returning to co-produce with Licater is Ivar Lunde, Jr. who also is the recording, mixing and mastering engineer and the only guest musician— performing on a variety of instruments including frame drum, synths, guitar and acoustic bass.

Radio focus tracks include:

“Ancient Traveler” a solo Native American-style flute piece; “Between the Stars” a soothing flute melody with bass and synth; and “Luminous Waters,” with Licater playing both piano and flutes in a lush improvisation.

This album, akin to Licater’s other releases, is an artful, sonic journey designed for mindfulness practices, meditation, well-being, yoga, spa, healing arts, creativity, study, sleep, and stress reduction.

Between the Stars is the most recent release on the artist’s Cul de Sac Mystic Productions label, which also includes Following the Call (2007), Doorway to a Dream (2010), Invitation from Within (2013), Beyond the Waves (2016), Quiet Spaces: Flute Meditations for Mindfulness and Relaxation (2018), Whispers from Earth (2022.)
