The honor was announced Oct. 23 where DeSimone was among 62 men and women honored in the publication’s “Leaders of Influence – Employment and Labor Attorneys 2023” special supplement.

In announcing the honor, the publication’s authors noted the evolving intricacies of employment law: “The leading employment attorneys and experts in the region have their finger on the ever-changing pulse of labor legislation, what changes have come to the labor law landscape in light of the COVID pandemic, the new rules of hiring and firing, and the various trends that they have been tirelessly monitoring and managing for their clients.”

The court agreed with DeSimone’s argument to overturn a lower court’s ruling to grant the involved officers qualified immunity in the case.

“It is an honor to be recognized as a Leader of Influence in Employment and Labor Law by the
