Top Canadian skaters are coming to Vancouver for 7 Gen, including Tokyo 2020 Olympians, Matt Berger, Micky Papa, and Andy Anderson, and Team Canada skaters, TJ Rogers, Fay De Fazio Ebert and Cordano Russell. We're also excited about the return of last year's champion, Jake Wooten, and to welcome Chris Colbourn this year. More names are coming in, so check out www.instagram.com/7genskate for the latest announcements.

On Saturday, Nov 11th, is the Men's and Women's Am Contest. 50 selected amateur skaters will be competing in a jam style format for over $5,000 in cash and prizes. Top amateur skaters can register at www.7genskate.com and the selections will be made based on contest experience, sponsorships, and skill level. This year's arena features a street course, 6' halfpipe, the Ultimate canoe, and the RDS granite ledges.

Other events include the Vulcan Bolts Long-Jump, Pylon Skateboards Death Race, best trick battles, and a Saturday evening concert featuring Knightwolves, Whollum, Contra Code, DJ Dark Circles and a pro/am skate session. Each day also includes freestyle skateboarding demos featuring Andy Anderson, demos/clinics in the community park by Ramptime Productions, emceeing by Renee Renee, and music by DJ Vinyl Ritchie in the Red Bull Event Vehicle. Plus, food trucks, cafe, bar, candy store and prize giveaways!

A limited number of weekend passes and day tickets are available now at www.ticketleader.ca. Check out the schedule below, but don't miss out on this chance to see top skaters in action.

Generations Skateboard Society acknowledges the unceded territories of the Squamish, Tsleil-Waututh and Musqueam Peoples on which we operate, live, and skate. 7 Gen is dedicated to an all-inclusive skateboarding event that welcomes everyone, and is committed to the representation of indigenous peoples as our spiritual and territorial hosts. The event's name is inspired by the philosophy of considering the impact on seven future generations and by the seven traditional laws of the Kwantlen First Nation.

7 Gen Skate Festival is made possible thanks to support by the Province of British Columbia.
