iSpiice Volunteering in India aims to support rural Indian communities.

Varun Verma, founder of iSpiice, has announced that the organisation's aim is to directly contribute to the sustainable development of rural Indian communities. He also stated that the organisation provides volunteers with meaningful and socially responsible opportunities for travel, service, and cultural exchange. iSpiice is always ready to assist the local community in practical ways and is flexible in the support it offers to meet specific needs. The organisation has already contributed to the development of rural Indian communities in a number of ways, including the provision of clean water, healthcare, and education. Looking to the future, iSpiice plans to continue its work in supporting rural Indian communities. Verma says, "Our goal is to make a lasting difference in the lives of those we work with. We want to help them build a better future for themselves and their families."

About iSpiice Volunteering

iSpiice Volunteering in India is a registered non-political, non-religious volunteer organization founded by Varun Verma in 2008. The organization aims to address inequalities in the provision of education and healthcare in rural India and to tackle gender discrimination through empowerment. They provide combined volunteer programs to people from all over the world, offering them a chance to experience life in rural India and act as a platform for meaningful cultural exchange. iSpiice takes a holistic approach to community development by involving different affected groups in program development. iSpiice is always ready to assist the local community in practical ways and aims to be flexible in the support they offer to meet specific needs within the community.
