Golf Club and Sets Market-Allied Market

A golf club is equipment used to hit a golf ball. The core material used for the manufacturing of golf club is wood. Golf clubs have evolved significantly with the passage of time and the advancement of technology. The key manufacturers of golf clubs are currently focusing on technology-based and lightweight golf clubs. The smart sensors help with accuracy and swings, and the golf club can be linked to a smartphone app.

The woods with a higher number have a more pronounced club face angle and produce greater lift. Many consumers prefer hybrid clubs due to developments in product innovation. A hybrid is a relatively new style of the club that combines both iron and wood technology. Many golfers choose hybrids over long irons because hybrids are easier to hit than long-iron golf clubs. The rise in the adoption of golf and the increased popularity of the game as an exciting activity are driving the Golf Club and Sets Market. Furthermore, various hotels and resorts are including recreational activities, such as golf, within their hospitality offerings. The establishment of mini golf courses to enhance and promote golf as a healthy leisure activity is helping to boost golf club sales.

Golf tourism refers to the trips undertaken by people with the purpose of playing golf. According to the International Association of Golfing Tour Operators (IAGTO), the global golf tourism market was valued at more than $17 billion in 2018, out of which the U.S. is reported to be the largest market in terms of golf as a sport. However, UK, Japan, and Australia, along with the U.S., have witnessed stagnation in terms of a number of dedicated golfers, because of the change in the interest of youth towards other sports and the aging retired population is now taking up this sport as a recreational activity. Asia and Middle East are witnessing fastest rates in the Golf Club and Sets Industry. Growth in the middle-class population and an increase in investments in infrastructure to support the game drive the growth of the golf sector.

The rise in expenditure on sports training and development among children, owing to an increase in consciousness about the benefits of engaging in sports activity such as increased concentration and problem-solving ability has fueled the Golf Club and Sets Market Demand. Moreover, the changing paradigm of the educational system supports the growth of the sports industry and industries related to it. In addition, the rise in sports education and sports training in academics has significantly increased the awareness of sports and fitness. Thus, many of the schools/educational institutes are providing training to the students, providing them with the opportunity to compete in various sports competitions. Furthermore, an upsurge in the state, national, and international level competitions conducted by various governments across the world is leading to increased participation and developing interest of the youth in sports activities. This in turn has resulted in increased demand for golf club & sets, which significantly contributes to the overall growth of the Golf Club and Sets Industry

The rise in penetration of the internet, smartphones, computers, and other electronic media & entertainment devices has significantly increased the involvement of children and youth in indoor activities. This has resulted in diminished health and deterioration of skills & abilities of this population, which in turn has declined the interest and rate of participation in sports and reduced sales of sports equipment and apparel. Thus, the decline in interest of children and the young population in sports including golf, owing to mounting interest in media & entertainment devices restrains the market growth.
