Arizona College of Nursing*

"We congratulate Matt on his appointment to Chair of ABHES's Board of Commissioners and are proud to have him represent our institution," said Nick Mansour, Chairman of Arizona College of Nursing. "His election is a testament to the respect and admiration he has garnered from his peers within the education community. Matt embodies Arizona College of Nursing's mission to put students' needs first, and that mindset will be a tremendous asset in this well-deserved appointment."

Matt Calhoun has worked in higher education for more than 20 years, serving in leadership roles in Campus Operations, Regulatory Affairs, Student Finance, and New Campus Development. He has been a member of ABHES since 2007 and a commissioner for five years. During his time with the accreditation agency, Calhoun has led many accreditation visits and was named Evaluator of the Year in 2017. He has a Master of Science in Educational Leadership from Northern Arizona University and a Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration from Washington State University.

The mission of (ABHES) is to serve as a nationally recognized accrediting agency of institutions predominantly providing health education and programmatic accreditation in specific health education disciplines. Recognized by the United States Department of Education, ABHES has been nationally renowned as an independent accrediting agency since 1969. Healthcare educators and practitioners serve as volunteer peer evaluators and play a vital role in the accreditation process.
