Established in 2011, Advanced Home Care Solutions began with a noble mission: to offer highly qualified healthcare professionals to assist seniors in the comfort of their own homes. Recognizing the acute staffing gaps in hospitals and long-term care facilities, Stewart expanded the company's services in 2019, addressing an urgent need exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The pandemic catalyzed a shift in the healthcare landscape, with many nurses leaving hospital settings for less stressful environments. "We provided a lifeline by incentivizing nurses to return to clinical practice, offering them the choice of location and mitigating the staffing crisis," Stewart remarks, emphasizing the company's pivotal role during these challenging times.

"We've built a culture that emphasizes civility, respect, and psychological safety," says Stewart. "Our administrative team is passionate about placing healthcare professionals in roles where they're desperately needed, bridging the gap in short-staffed hospitals and care facilities."

The company also offers a novel pathway for temporary healthcare workers to transition into permanent roles within these institutions, alongside standard short to mid-term assignment contracts.

Acknowledging the industry's long-standing challenges, including the retirement-induced attrition of healthcare workers, Stewart underscores the critical role of temporary healthcare staff. "While the healthcare sector devises long-term strategies, our 'short game' approach is providing immediate relief," she explains.
