FORT WORTH, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, November 6, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Aviation supply chain innovator Peloton Aerospace is growing in reach and capabilities with the addition of industry veteran Jason Johnson as Chief Commercial Officer (CCO).

As CCO, Mr. Johnson will guide the Fort Worth-based company's mission to provide game-changing solutions for the aerospace industry's supply chain through improved economics, part availability and obsolescence management. His primary focus will be geared toward airlines and MRO (Maintenance, Repair, and Overhaul) providers in both the commercial and military segments.

“The aviation industry has undergone dynamic change and disruption, creating new challenges and opportunities for MROs and operators,” said Peloton Aerospace CEO Mitch Rosenbleeth. “Jason's background and deep expertise will allow us to improve our offerings with innovative solutions that give our customers a competitive edge.”

With more than 25 years of aerospace expertise, Mr. Johnson has held key executive-level positions in public and private companies, both large and small. Most recently, he served as global vice president of sales and marketing at StandardAero. His previous experience includes leadership positions at GKN, Safran, and Honeywell. His aerospace career began by proudly serving in the U.S. Air Force, followed shortly with education from Harvard Business School, Kellogg School of Management, and at the University of Texas at Dallas complementing his Bachelor of Science degree.

“Peloton Aerospace is a great organization that is uniquely positioned to respond to challenges facing operators and MROs today,” Mr. Johnson said. “I am very excited to join this dynamic team to help drive these creative, customer-centric solutions.”

About Peloton Aerospace

Peloton Aerospace combines top-tier manufacturers and suppliers, reliable distribution, and best-in-class services to lower costs, ensure supply certainty, and enhance the nature of competition for operators and MROs.
