In the fast-paced realm of global commerce, which demands speed and transparency, Statrys employs SWIFT GPI technology —the new standard in global payments, offering end-to-end transaction visibility, faster international transfers, and automatic payment tracking— to afford businesses the transparency essential for effective financial management.

- Streamlined Capital Forecasting: The ability to track payments diligently brings new efficiencies to cash flow management, which is particularly useful for businesses that operate on tight margins and schedules.
- Digitized Proof of Payment: The feature eliminates the need for manual proof of payment processes, simplifying the complexities associated with international transactions.

- Shared Payment Tracking: Statrys provides clients the unique capability to share a tracking link for outgoing payments, reinforcing transparency with their beneficiaries.
