Driver: Navigating the Tech Landscape with Ease

The substantial proliferation and prevalence of technology providers are expected to drive the growth of the multi-vendor support services market during the forecast period. As technology continues to permeate various aspects of the business landscape, the demand for comprehensive vendor support services becomes imperative for effective technology implementation. For instance, in 2021, CDS, a provider of multi-vendor services (MVS) for data centers, introduced Commit, a global channel program designed to empower solution providers in delivering advanced, comprehensive, and complementary infrastructure services to enterprise customers.
