TOPIC: 3 REASONS BUSINESS FAILURE IS NOT AN OPTION FOR BLACK AMERICA.

Learn strategies for thriving in the business world versus merely surviving. Learn why Entrepreneurship is the basis for economic empowerment for Black America. "It's what you don't know that keeps you in struggle mode," Dr. Rosie Milligan

As a guest Sharifah Hardie shares her journey not just of political ambition, but a story of unwavering commitment to community upliftment. Her nearly three-decade-long career has been a testament to her dedication to being the change she wishes to see. From transforming businesses to championing diversity, Hardie's approach is both unique and impactful.

Her role in the Punch TV Studios IPO, not just as a leader but as a visionary, helped raise millions and brought significant exposure to the initiative. As a business consultant, she didn't just launch companies like Perks.com and Jordans Rooter and Plumbing; she infused them with a spirit of innovation and community focus.

Hardie's candidacy is distinguished by her deep understanding of the challenges facing the working poor and her commitment to addressing homelessness with transparency and accountability. Following a recent $2 million allocation by the City of Long Beach to combat homelessness, Hardie's call for immediate action has resonated with many. "We need real solutions, not just promises. It's time for action," Hardie states emphatically.
