Florida businesses to shield the company from significant financial losses if problems occur. They work with business owners to ensure they have the appropriate coverage to meet their needs.

Del Toro Insurance recommends all businesses have liability insurance to cover property damage and bodily injury related to the business. For instance, if a customer slips and is injured on a business' property, they may file a lawsuit. Business liability insurance covers attorney fees and any settlement to protect businesses from financial ruin. It can also cover faulty products or other claims, safeguarding businesses from crippling financial losses relating to medical bills and legal fees.

Del Toro Insurance meets with business owners to discuss their unique needs and recommend policies based on the company's size and other risk factors. They aim to help companies find the most affordable coverage while ensuring they have the proper amount to cover any damages that may occur.
