

Nye & Company's online-only Chic and Antique Estate Treasures auction, December 6-7, will feature superb decorative arts

Included will be property from the collection of Carolina and Ian Irving of New York City and East Hampton, plus selections from the Stanley Weiss collection.

BLOOMFIELD, NJ, UNITED STATES,
November 27, 2023 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Nye & Company Auctioneers will hold a two-day, online-only Chic and Antique Estate Treasures auction on Wednesday and Thursday, December 6th and 7th, featuring modern and contemporary furnishings; early American, English and Continental Furniture; an extensive assortment of silver and estate jewelry; and a broad selection of fine art and prints.

The auction, starting both days at 10 am Eastern time, will feature items from several tri-state area collections, including property formerly in the collection of Carolina and Ian Irving of New York City and East Hampton, as well as a small selection of property from the Stanley Weiss Collection. Telephone bidding will be available on a limited basis.

The largest section of contemporary, modern and jewelry is being consigned by a private Park Avenue, New York City collector. Highlights include an 18k yellow gold Cartier "Love" bracelet. It's priced conservatively at $3,000-$5,000. There are also several fashion forward pieces of jewelry, featuring top brands such as Hermes, Chanel, YSL, Louis Vuitton and Tiffany.

The collection also includes a set of the collaboration between Supreme and Damien Hirst's 'spot' skateboard decks; several Hella Jongerius ceramic vase; a pink upholstered Fritz Hansen after Arne Jacobsen egg chair and ottoman (est. $4,000-$6,000); and accessories such as a pair of Philippe Boulet LED candelabra and an Elie Bleu humidor. These are sure to be crowd pleasers.

Property formerly in the collection of Ian Carolina Irving, the famous and well-known textile designer and taste maker, includes a 19th century French Empire marble top mahogany pier table (est. $800-$1,200); a Vanderhurd geometric cloisonné tower table lamp; and some antique Nagaland cloth textiles that certainly appeal to Carolina's impeccable sense of style and taste.

A New York City and Swiss collector are selling two Le Corbusier lithographs titled Je Revais and Femme a la Main Levee. The lithographs are estimated to sell between $500 and $2,000, and both are wonderful examples of a terrific modern aesthetic. The collection also features several works by the Swiss artist Karina Wisniewska (b. 1966), who was also a fine musician.

For those who prefer more traditional art, the collection also features a large-scale oil on canvas painting once handled by the Findlay Galleries, titled L'Entrée au Jardin by Gaston Sebire. The work is estimated to sell between $2,500 and $5,000. Constantin Kluge (French, 1912-2003) is represented with an oil on canvas titled Le Printemps, which is also estimated at $2,500-$5,000.

The sale includes two Keith Haring subway drawings, circa 1982-84. One includes a picture of it in the subway before it was taken down by the consignor (each est. $10,000-$40,000).

The sale also includes a small but choice selection of Self Taught and Urban art, including two Keith Haring subway drawings circa 1982-84. One includes a picture of it in the subway before it was taken down by the consignor. These are expected bring $10,000-$40,000. There is also a Leo Sewell pig assemblage and works by Ron English, Brian Mashburn and James de la Vega.

Antanas Adomaitis is also included in the auction, with three works from this Lithuanian-born artist whose work is in private collections around the world. Pricing for most of the Urban art ranges from a couple hundred dollars to a few thousand dollars. This is a perfect entry point for beginning collectors to start or continue to build a collection of highly visual and graphic art.

For who prefer more academic art, there are two Dylan Lewis bronze sculptures of animals. Born in South Africa in 1964, Lewis is considered to be one of the world's foremost sculptors of the animal form. Nye & Company Auctioneers is fortunate enough to be offering a sculpture of a leopard and another of a water buffalo. Both are estimated to sell for between $10,000-$20,000.

Musical instruments will be highlighted by a 1948 D'Angelico "Excel" guitar that's only been used by one owner and has been lovingly cared for, serial #1800 (est. $12,000-$18,000).

The sale also features a terrific watercolor depicting a recumbent woman on a chaise lounge signed by Egon Schiele (1890-1918). Known for his intensity and raw sexuality, Schiele's work can be found in museums across the globe. The twisted body shapes and the expressive line that characterize his paintings and drawings mark the artist as an early exponent of Expressionism.

Continuing with more traditional works of art, the sale features a small but choice selection of furniture from the highly regarded Rhode Island collector Stanley Weiss, who developed an eye for the early American aesthetic, from Queen Anne through the Neoclassical periods. Weiss's passion and enthusiasm for quality craftsmanship and wood are evident in each piece he owned.

Highlights include a terrific and impressive sized Federal secretary bookcase made in Baltimore, Maryland, circa 1815. This piece relates to the work of John Needles, the highly regarded Baltimore cabinetmaker. Estimated at $2,000-$4,000, the piece offers visual bang for the buck.

There is also a similarly estimated Federal Rhode Island sideboard with integrated butler's desk.

Conservatively estimated, this piece is undervalued for the quality and craftsmanship and presents an excellent opportunity for any collector, whether they be seasoned or new to the field.

Another consignor is giving bidders a wonderful opportunity to be the next steward of a terrific W & AK Johnston 18" terrestrial globe. The piece is raised on an outstanding dolphin carved base that is exquisitely carved and reminiscent of late 18th/early 19th century craftsmanship.

The sale also includes a large selection of both fine and costume jewelry. Pieces include an 18k rose gold and diamond Rolex ladies watch with Presidential band. This fine timepiece is estimated conservatively at $8,000-$12,000. Equally as stunning is a 18k white gold, tanzanite and diamond cocktail ring and pendant. Each are attractively estimated at $2,000-$3,000.

There is a pair of Hermes 18k gold bar stud earrings and a Sonia B 14k yellow gold and diamond ring, which would make terrific holiday gifts. Bidders are encouraged to flip through the catalog filled with bright and shiny pieces that will be sure to be the highlight of any holiday gift giving.

Finally, for those that are musically inclined, there is a nicely curated selection of musical instruments highlighted by a 1948 D'Angelico Excel guitar that's only been used by one owner and has been lovingly cared for (est. $12,000-$18,000). There is also a Gibson model ES-175TD (prototype) guitar made circa 1970. This is coming from the same collection as the D'Angelico.

Rolex 18k rose gold and diamond Oyster Perpetual Date ladies' watch with Presidential band (est. $8,000-$12,000).

Leo Sewell (American, b 1945), found object sculpture of a pig.

John Nye had a long and fruitful career at Sotheby's before he and his wife, Kathleen, acquired Dawson's in 2003 and started Dawson & Nye. With the move to Bloomfield seven years later, they renamed the business to Nye & Company (Auctioneers, Appraisers, Antiques). The firm is nationwide, but the vast bulk of the business comes from trusts and estates in the tri-state area.
