Quickpay Funding's clients receive the working capital they need to support and grow their business, and now with AscendTMS they'll be able to manage that growth with the same TMS technology used by the world's largest logistics companies.

In a move that underlines Quickpay Funding's commitment to supporting the trucking industry, the company will be providing their qualifying clients with a completely free Premium subscription to AscendTMS for a full year. As the industry grapples with one of the most significant recessions in decades, this offer can be a lifeline for freight brokers and carriers needing to reduce costs and improve efficiency.

“At Quickpay Funding, our goal is to support our clients' businesses and help them achieve consistent growth, no matter the market conditions”, said Juan Estrada, CEO of Quickpay Funding. “We are excited to partner with AscendTMS and provide our logistics clients the best transportation management system available, helping them not only survive but thrive in this down market.”

With the freight industry facing unprecedented challenges, the integration of Quickpay Funding's financial support with AscendTMS's advanced transportation management software is poised to provide much-needed relief to freight companies seeking to enhance their efficiency and resilience.

“We’re thrilled Quickpay Funding has joined our network . . . giving away the #1 Rated TMS to boost customer retention and reduce invoice fraud,” said Tim Higham, President of AscendTMS. “By providing AscendTMS at no cost, Quickpay Funding’s clients are given the latest and greatest in both TMS software and funding solutions, helping them get invoices funded same day and run every part of logistics business in one easy-to-use, cloud based TMS platform.” Higham continued, “In the time since our “soft launch” with Quickpay, our mutual clients are seeing lower costs and increased profits, while much of the SMB broker and carrier market are feeling the effects of the softest spot market we’ve seen in several years.”

This partnership presents an exciting opportunity for freight brokers and carriers to streamline their operations and navigate the challenges of the trucking industry with confidence.
