"The education sector is our focus as it now ranks as the most frequently targeted industry for cyberattacks in the nation. Our mission is to protect sensitive student information and other critical personal data within the network systems of K-12 school districts and various educational institutions. We do this by monitoring the organization's entire network 24/7/365 and detecting and eliminating cyber threats before they can do damage," stated Daniel Eickhoff, Director of Sales at Securus360. "Our partnership with CybeReady and deployment of their Security Awareness Training solution builds a strong first line of defense by delivering effective cyber awareness."

CybeReady stands out in this area with a unique methodology that emphasizes practical, experiential learning. By integrating realistic scenarios and simulations, the SaaS-based solution engages users in practical situations for a more effective training approach. This method ensures that the experience is not only informative but also highly applicable, preparing individuals to face actual cyber threats effectively. The collaboration with Securus360 expands this innovative training to a broader audience, ensuring that Securus360's clients benefit from CybeReady's expertise. Through the arrangement, clients receive comprehensive security education tailored to meet differing challenges to elevate their overall readiness.

"The Education sector is subject to constant cyberattacks," said Jonathan Stone, VP North America at CybeReady. "Security Awareness Training is proven to enhance an organization's defensive capabilities. Our goal is to train employees in education organizations to safeguard their information assets effectively, and teaming up with Securus360 marks a major stride in furthering this objective."

The partnership between CybeReady and Securus360 marks a significant advancement in enhancing digital security. By integrating comprehensive cybersecurity awareness training into Securus360's offerings, a collaboration that addresses the critical need for heightened cyber vigilance. Offering a 90-day free trial, CybeReady equips Securus360's clients with essential tools and knowledge to bolster their security posture, protect sensitive information, and proactively confront cybersecurity risks.
