“Our distinctive approach revolves around play-based learning, set within a captivating miniature city environment,” said Herlinda Kennedy, founder and owner of Tree Town. “In our unique setting, you won't find any desks or chairs; instead, we're at the forefront of embracing the new era of flexible learning.”

The preschool franchise extends a warm welcome to children ranging from 18 months to 5 years old. Franchise partners gain extensive protocols and procedures. Not only does Tree Town offer daytime programs, the company also offers after-school care for older children.

“We take pride in offering comprehensive before and after-school programs tailored to school-aged children. Our overarching mission is to instill vital principles such as entrepreneurship, education, self-sufficiency, and emotional awareness right from the formative years,” said

Kennedy.

Tree Town features a miniature city with multiple themed rooms. Parents will find a gym, theater, hospital, supermarket, and café. "Each of our rooms are designed to enhance the learning experience in a fun and engaging way," pointed out Kennedy.

Franchise partners can expect an in-depth training program that includes field support and refresher training.

The company also gives all franchisees a branding suite and marketing tools to help grow their location. To find out more information about Tree Town, visit <https://www.thekidzcapital.org>.
