

Armored Republic Partners with DARKMATTER for Enhanced Ballistic Trauma Protection

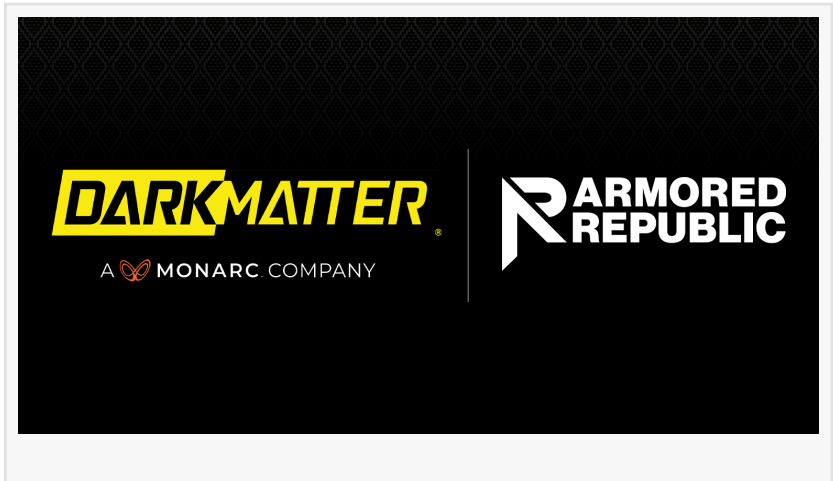

AR500 to Revolutionize Ballistic Protection with DARKMATTER Variable Composite Technology

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, December 5, 2023

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Monarc Holdings

is pleased to announce a new contract with Armored Republic (AR500), a leading provider of ballistic armor, for DARKMATTER variable composite technology. The collaboration brings together AR500's armor expertise with DARKMATTER's energy dispersal solutions to achieve new levels of protection and performance.

DARKMATTER solutions are proven to reduce dangerous kinetic energy transfer, impact force, and Back Face Deformation (BFD) more effectively than any other product on the market—protecting individuals from serious Behind Armor Blunt Trauma injuries including organ damage, broken bones, and severe bruising.

By incorporating DARKMATTER technology, we are revolutionizing personal protective equipment and taking a definitive leap forward in performance and user experience.”

David Reece - CEO, Armored Republic

Armored Republic will leverage DARKMATTER technology to develop new products including enhanced trauma pads, which will provide unparalleled protection, performance, and comfort for military personnel, law enforcement officers, and other professionals operating in high-risk environments.

“Our partnership with Monarc represents a significant milestone as we continue to evolve and enhance our products,” said David Reece, CEO of Armored Republic. “By incorporating DARKMATTER technology, we are revolutionizing personal protective equipment and taking a definitive leap forward in performance and user experience.”

"We are excited to expand the reach and availability of our innovative DARKMATTER solutions in the market" said Joe Cufari, CEO of Monarc Holdings. "For years, trauma protection was limited to common foams that provide limited benefits. The DARKMATTER solution is engineered, tested, and proven to disperse kinetic energy and minimize BFD in ballistic body armor. Our collaboration with Armored Republic will set a new standard for protection."
