"Through my journey reflected in this book, I discovered a sanctuary within the Dichotic Dilemma—a beacon of tranquility amid the chaos," states the author. "My aspiration is for readers to embark on their own expedition towards inner peace by sharing in my revelations."

The inspiration for writing this book stems from an innate and burning curiosity about the fundamental purpose of existence. "Why are we here? Why does God allow bad things to happen?" All those fundamental questions that people have as they grapple with reality which at times can push and pull us in truly painful ways. The book was inspired by a need to delve deeper into those questions. "Into myself and see if I could find peace because perhaps the thing that tortured and tormented me the most wasn't the world out there, it was the turmoil within me."
