Christmas is just around the corner and singer-songwriter Taydem Shoesmith is spreading holiday cheer with the release of her new single, "So Mrs. Claus". The heartwarming song, just released on December 3rd, captures the emotions of missing loved ones during the holiday season and the little things that make Christmas feel incomplete without them.

Shoesmith, who has been making music since her high school days, has taken a unique approach to writing a Christmas song. As someone who hasn't had a "special someone" during the holidays, she struggled to find inspiration. However, she found solace in the lyrics "it's not Christmas without you" as she reflected on the loss of loved ones in recent years. This deeply personal and relatable theme is what makes "So Mrs. Claus" stand out from traditional Christmas songs.

I've always loved Christmas, but it's been difficult not having those special people by my side.”

"I've always loved Christmas, but it's been difficult not having those special people by my side. So I channeled those emotions into the lyrics, knowing that many others can relate to missing someone during the holidays,"

Shoesmith shared.

Shoesmith's talent and passion for music have garnered her attention in the past. Her second single "This, That" reached the #2 spot on the UK iTunes Jazz charts with over 35K Spotify streams.

Aside from her successful music career, Shoesmith is also making waves in the film industry. She made her acting debut in 2020 and has since landed lead roles in several films. She has also created music for films, including a theme song for a short series.
