EINPresswire.com/ -- For nurses one major advantage of working per diem shifts with Nursa is the fast pay turnaround. Nursa has been hard at work to find a way to get hard-earned money even faster through the nurse staffing platform, and it's here.

Available now is Nursa Direct. In the app, under Nursa Wallet, One will find a new payment method called Nursa Direct. Nursa teamed up with Branch and is now offering Nursa Direct, a digital bank account and business debit card*, enabling to receive payment for qualifying shifts instantly.

How Nursa Instant Pay Works

Instant Pay is exactly what it sounds like. If one does satisfy the Instant Pay rules for their shift, They will receive a nurse will receive payment right after submitting their shift report through the Nursa Direct app. Here's how one qualifies to receive payment for a shift instantly:

Select the Nursa Direct payment method option in Nursa Wallet.

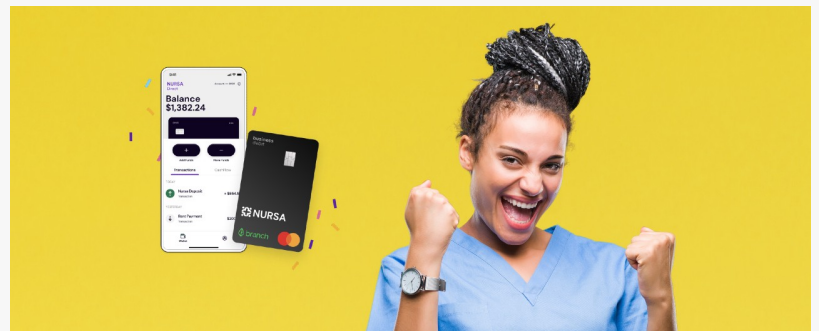

Establish a payment history of three verified shifts.

Check in with the "I'm Here" button in the app when one arrive at the facility for their shift.

One then submits the shift report within seven days.

When life happens, and one needs to tap into the money they set aside, one has the flexibility to easily transfer those funds back to the primary balance at any time.

Cash back rewards: Purchases made with Nursa Direct at participating retailers may be eligible to receive cash back rewards. A list of cash back offers will be available in the app and can be populated on the app's map.

Nursa Direct: Pick Up the Perks as One Picks Up PRN Shifts

Life happens, and unplanned expenses pop up. We know that sometimes one would pick up extra shifts to take care of an unexpected expense, such as a car repair, healthcare for a loved one, or a new dishwasher. Every per diem shift one picks up makes a difference: a difference to patients, a difference to colleagues, and a difference for the nurse. One can pick up high-paying PRN shifts and put the money one earns where they need it most with Nursa Direct.
