improvement. This collaboration aims to elevate MedVision's healthcare solutions through the integration of the innovative NexJ Connected Wellness platform.

Extended nationally, this partnership fortifies MedVision's commitment to delivering cutting-edge healthcare solutions for clients engaged in value-based and risk-based care programs across the United States.

Through this collaboration, MedVision's robust suite of applications will incorporate NexJ's proven wellness solutions on a national scale, optimizing end-to-end workflows for diverse operational structures. Solutions like MedVision's QuickCap v7.0 automate administrative functions, enhancing healthcare processes and elevating productivity. The inclusion of the NexJ Connected Wellness platform further contributes to more efficient managed care for organizations and end patients alike.

In response to the growing preference for value-based care models, MedVision recognizes the importance of enhancing organizational capabilities for optimal outcomes. This partnership signifies a significant stride toward bridging the gap between healthcare administration excellence and holistic patient wellbeing. NexJ Connected Wellness, with evidence-based virtual programs substantiated by peer-reviewed published research, empowers healthcare organizations to address patients' comprehensive health needs and manage risks associated with the full spectrum of chronic conditions.

“We are pleased to be partnering with NexJ Health to bring our respective platforms to our client bases nationally,” says Albert Sosa, CEO of MedVision, Inc., “Our complementary offerings together serve as a strong solution to help delegated risk-based organizations achieve excellent outcomes, and deliver on incentive arrangement opportunities.”

"We are extremely pleased to partner with MedVision, a national leader in administrative platforms for value-based and other innovative delivery models," says Daniela Liggio, President of NexJ Health. "This partnership will enable MedVision's and NexJ's clients to deliver on their commitment to manage their populations' whole health, while also managing risk of incentive arrangement opportunities."

In a strategic alliance poised to redefine healthcare solutions, MedVision, Inc., and NexJ Health collaborate to leverage not only their established client bases but also explore untapped opportunities within value-based and risk-based organizations across the United States. MedVision's expertise in healthcare technology positions them as a leader, ensuring a wealth of experience and a track record of optimizing operational efficiency. Complementing this, NexJ Health brings a game-changing platform backed by peer-reviewed clinical research, substantiating its efficacy in delivering exceptional results. Together, these industry powerhouses are poised to revolutionize the healthcare landscape and pioneer innovative solutions for organizations nationwide.
