“I want to sincerely thank all those who helped make this event possible, including Aidalyn Magsayo, Hazedá Magsayo, Sherry Zepatos, Marcia Mithun, Joycelyn Patrick, Mary Stern, and Don Uselmann” said Ted Hoskinson, Founder of Roots and Wings. “And to all the sponsors who helped us raise funds through their support, those who donated auction items, and all those who came out to support the event.”

Guests were greeted with a special “smokin’ cocktail” created especially for the event. Each guest had the opportunity to vote on 13 one-of-a-kind centerpieces created by this year’s Project Uplift schools. The night also included a wine class by Jim Morgan, Regional Manager of Wagner Family of Wines, and a unique buffet dinner was served by Potions in Motion Catering while Roving Magician Dr. Magic performed tableside for guests. Former Palm Beach County Mayor Robert Weinroth conducted the evening’s auction.

"To Palm Beach County School Superintendent Mike Burke, Chief of Staff Jamie Wyatt and Erica Whitfield from the Palm Beach County School Board, who all took time from their busy schedules to come and support our Project UpLift literacy program efforts, your support and partnership is greatly appreciated," added Hoskinson.

Roots and Wings' Project UpLift is an after-school tutoring program for public elementary school students in Title One schools. The program works primarily with students in grades one through three, focused on helping them reach literacy proficiency by the end of the third grade. Selected students are taught for three hours weekly in groups of ten or fewer based on their reading difficulties. Reading fundamentals starting with phonics are taught by their school's teachers, and lesson plans are specially created to focus on making reading fun through these fundamentals. The program, now in thirteen schools working with over 1,000 students, has also expanded to also serve students in grades four and five.
