

ICA Offers Online Classes for Maryland Home Inspector Continuing Education

The state-approved home inspection modules that satisfy registered inspectors' bi-annual education requirements are now available in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, MARYLAND, UNITED STATES, December 12, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ICA, a division of Edcetera, is thrilled to announce it is now offering online continuing education training for home inspectors in Maryland, a state with an abundant need for this type of training - due to ongoing demand in the robust real estate market.

According to ICA, Maryland home inspectors are required to complete 30 hours of continuing education every two years to maintain their license, in accordance with state regulations. To meet this critical need, ICA is offering all 30 required hours through a combination of three-day live webinars, and online self-paced courses, that can be purchased individually to meet each home inspectors' unique needs.

The engaging live webinars cover topics such as roof and exterior inspection, HVAC inspection, professional responsibilities and ethics, and advanced heating inspection. The online self-paced training modules provide inspection knowledge in many important areas such as electrical systems, plumbing, structural components, well and septic, and alternative homes, among other topics. This wide breadth of offerings ensure home inspectors can continue their growth and learning, right from the comfort of their home or office.

For the past eleven years, ICA has been a top school for home inspection education in the United States and Canada. As such, home inspectors in Maryland can rely on ICA's high-quality continuing education offerings to support them throughout their career, keeping them knowledgeable and satisfying their state's education requirements for maintaining licensure.

For individuals wishing to pursue a home inspection career, ICA's in-person Maryland pre-licensing education thoroughly prepares students for the execution of home inspections using recognized standards of practice. Graduates will understand how to evaluate the condition of all systems in a home, pinpoint hazards and energy inefficiencies, and to produce comprehensive inspection reports.
