Regional Share Analysis:

The global human liver models market by region includes North America, Asia-Pacific (APAC), Europe, South America, and Middle East & Africa (MEA).

North America: includes the US, Canada, Mexico

Asia Pacific: includes China, Japan, South Korea, India, Australia, ASEAN and Rest of APAC

Europe: includes UK, Germany, France, Italy, Spain, Russia, and Rest of Europe

South America: includes Brazil, Argentina and Rest of South America

Middle East & Africa: includes Turkey, UAE, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, and Rest of MEA

Geographically, the global market for human liver models was led by the North American market in 2021, which also had the greatest revenue share. The forecast term is expected to see North America continuing to contribute the most to revenue. The high prevalence of hepatitis and the rising incidence of non-alcoholic fatty liver disease (NAFLD), as well as the development of the life science sector, are all factors that contribute to the robust revenue share. Additionally, rising government backing, the existence of specialists with the necessary training, rising investments, and a focus on tissue culture diagnostics are some important drivers driving the market's revenue growth in this area.

During the forecast period, the Asia Pacific region is anticipated to have the quickest revenue CAGR. Some of the major factors propelling growth of the Asia Pacific human liver models market include rising investments in clinical diagnostics, rising awareness of human organoids, rising healthcare costs, rising incidence of liver diseases, and cumulative efforts to improve healthcare infrastructure.
