Patricia J. Rullo of Speak Up Talk Radio founded the Positive Change Podcast Awards. Podcasters worldwide submit their work for consideration. Each podcast entry is reviewed by six judges who listen to several episodes in their entirety. Patricia says, “While this involves a lot of time, we feel it is the only way to really listen, hear, and ‘get’ the nuances of the podcast. All judges commit to a set of standardized criteria to evaluate the content’s quality and production aspects. Only entries with the highest scores are awarded the Positive Change Podcast Award.”

The podcast competition is called Positive Change because it is doing just that. All entry submission fees fund an ongoing project to help renovate and transform homeless shelters for women and children by sending handmade, fun, and colorful pillowcases to the shelters for Enchanted Makeovers – a 501 [c] [3] and other shelters. Enchanted Makeovers renovates long-term shelters for women and children into places of peace and possibility. They have impacted over 60,000 people
