The event's pop-up holiday market included an array of local vendors renowned for their unique Christmas gift finds, such as Semi Charmed Wife, SOHO, Burn Bootcamp, Project Lean Nation, Feather Fox, Hint of Mud Ceramics, artist Alex Bodish, floral designs by Lisa Easterling, Topanga Scents, Voxy Aesthetics and Wellness, and Dry Bar. The evening exemplified the importance of championing small businesses and amplifying the spirit of giving in northwest Arkansas.

While the celebration brought together the community in a bid to celebrate and encourage commerce, its philanthropic focus was not lost. Voxy Aesthetics and Wellness partnered with Dress for Success Northwest Arkansas, a nonprofit organization with a commitment to making a positive impact within the local community. Guests were encouraged to donate professional women's clothing items to benefit local women seeking employment opportunities. Paige Babcock from Dress for Success was present to receive the donations and ensure they were delivered to those in need.

The event featured a wide range of captivating experiences including seasonal cocktails, live music, and heartfelt toasts in honor of the joyous season. After indulging in tastings of small-batch spirits during a guided tour of Fox Trail Distillery, attendees had the opportunity to try exclusive holiday discounts on Voxy treatments and skincare, prioritizing self-care and love during the festive time.
