It takes a village to make an event like this possible. It's a joy to see our community of women entrepreneurs and small business owners connecting in New York City...”

Mary Tan, Leader of New York Women In Business

The evening commenced with a warm welcome from Charlotte Hamamgian, Deputy Comptroller, Contracts and Procurement, Office of New York City Comptroller Brad Lander's Office. Her opening remarks set the tone for an evening filled with collaboration, networking, and celebration of women entrepreneurs. The event showcased the city's commitment to empowering and fostering the growth of women-led businesses.

One of the highlights of the Holiday Celebration 2023 event was featuring small business vendors that participated in the NYWIB/Accompany Capital PITCH TANK Competition competing for awards of up to $25,000. The competition not only provided a platform for these entrepreneurs to showcase their ventures but also served as an opportunity for them to connect with potential investors and partners. Some of the featured New York City vendors were Mani Mina, Drunken Fruit, Realm Concept Market, Passion Fusion NY, Sweet Vegan and Wing Woman Reserve.

Mary Tan, who leads New York Women In Business, expressed her pleasure at the success of the event, stating, "It takes a village to make an event like this possible. It is a joy to see our community of women entrepreneurs and small business owners connecting, having a drink together, and building new relationships."

The collaboration between NYWIB and its partners demonstrated the collective effort to support and empower women in business. The event emphasized the importance of fostering a network of like-minded individuals who are dedicated to the success and growth of women-owned enterprises.
