"The world needs Veganza Animal Heroes' positive, proactive, practical tips on being a superhero for the earth and its inhabitants" states, Susan Hargreaves, "Music is the universal language to convey our message of kindness."

The video is produced by the non-profit organization Animal Hero Kids, which engages and encourages people of all ages to be heroes for animals.

The vegan rapper, Free Bison, and the plant-powered superhero characters visit schools in South Florida and around the world providing free programs as part of the Be an Animal Hero project. Vegan food activities and free, original books full of inspiring animal rescue stories by Susan Hargreaves are also included.

Freedom is played by professional vegan body builder, Korin Sutton. Courage, the vegan mermaid, is played by Sky Bison, dancer, actress, and sister to Free Bison. Venganza is played by Susan Hargreaves, the Skipping Stone Honor Award-winning author of the Venganza book series and founder of Animal Hero Kids inc.

The South Florida locals filmed part of the music video in Los Angeles at MUSE Global school, which was founded by filmmaker James Cameron and Suzy Amis Cameron. The school is the first all plant-based school in the United States.

The world needs Venganza Animal Heroes' positive, proactive, practical tips on being a superhero for the earth and its inhabitants. Music is the universal language to convey our message of kindness.”

“I was an animal hero at 3 years old when I felt that animals had the right to live free of harm and suffering. It is vital to foster empathy and critical thinking in youth which leads to compassionate actions, and ultimately, a more peaceful world for all.”
