EINPresswire.com/ -- cloudEQ's CEO

Sean Barker secured the 5th position among competitors, a significant climb from last year's 19th spot. The company's score highlights cloudEQ's upward trajectory, showcasing it as a powerhouse that maintains emotional intelligence to foster a resilient team. Notably, an impressive 98% of employees affirm their pride in being part of the company.

cloudEQ's Culture Score achieved a remarkable feat, securing the #7 position, a substantial ascent from its previous #21 ranking on the Best Company Culture list. An outstanding 98% of cloudEQ employees express anticipation in working with their colleagues, a noteworthy achievement. The leadership team's emotional intelligence translates into tangible benefits for clients – by truly listening, the team efficiently addresses issues, surpassing customer expectations. This accolade reinforces the theme of contented employees collaboratively pursuing shared goals of excellence, positivity, and inclusivity

These accolades join an already distinguished roster of awards, including recognition for Best CEO in Diversity, Best Company for Diversity, Best Company for Culture, Best CEO, Best Company for Career Growth, Best Company Happiness, Best Company Work-Life Balance, Best Company Outlook, Best Company Leadership, Best Company for Women and Best Engineering Team in 2023.

Consistently earning an A+ culture rating from hundreds of current employees, coupled with one of the lowest turnover rates in the industry, indicates that team members at cloudEQ are not just content but also highly motivated to persist in their roles.
