Parents' Picks Awards, with over 45 years of expertise, rigorously assess products through a stringent approval process.

They consider over 50 criteria in their selection process, including products that help develop social, cognitive and physical skills in children.

"A Parents' Picks Award recognition is more than just a seal of approval," according to their website. "It signifies that a product has been rigorously evaluated against stringent criteria and that it stands out among hundreds of similar products from around the world."

gobaplay's Large Geometric Climbing Dome stands out for its unique shape, powder-coated steel structure (with non-slip texture application) and neutral gunmetal color. It also includes real rock-climbing hand grips and three anchors for optimal stability.
