USA, January 5, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- After a year in which she released her most ambitious work to date in her four-decade career, Billboard charting American pianist, composer and Steinway Artist Robin Spielberg, renowned for her emotive and masterful piano artistry, builds on her momentum by bringing her music back to the fans in person, with a solo tour performing her original compositions as well as timeless classics from the American Songbook, cinematic soundtracks, and romantic favorites at theaters across eight states. Spielberg's concerts are renowned as much for the engaging stories she tells between the delicate notes and powerful crescendos of her technique, as she forges an intimate connection with her audience, making each concert a unique and unforgettable experience. Concert films produced specifically for the tour complement Spielberg's musical artistry with beautiful scenery and other visuals.

Tour stops include venues in the Washington, DC; Los Angeles CA; Charlotte, NC; and Cleveland OH markets. For a full list of dates visit <https://robinspielberg.com/concerts/>.

Spielberg's solo concert tour takes her back to her roots as a young pianist making a name for herself in the bustling hotel lobbies of midtown Manhattan, where patrons first got to know her precise stylings that led to a sold-out Carnegie Hall debut and encouraged her to record the original compositions she would sprinkle between standards and classic show tunes. Her fans were again instrumental in a recent career milestone - the inspiration for her 24th album and first fully orchestrated work "By Way of the Wind". The October 2023 Billboard charting release, now available to stream on all platforms and as a limited edition CD gift set (<https://robinspielberg.com/product/by-way-of-the-wind/>), was a lifelong dream put on hold during non-stop life of a touring musician for many years, until the Covid shutdown pivoted Spielberg's 2020 tour to a series of livestream concerts. As Robin's signature style of charming between song banter during these performances brought her closer to her listeners, she shared her goal to hear her music performed as she always intended while composing – not just herself on piano or with small ensemble as she usually recorded but with full orchestra. A virtual tip jar began the seed money to make it a reality, and the result – a collection of original works with a shared theme of resilience and the ways we are carried through life by forces outside ourselves - has been praised for its virtuosity. The simple livestreams that sparked this musical achievement have also developed in scale into high definition, five-camera shoots, still weekly from Spielberg's home Steinway at https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PLg4iI2l14yP_P0mcgsvXNs24abc6vAeyy when she is not on tour, with a different theme every week - going on 240 performances as of early 2024.
