In addition to his role at Bicycle Health, Dr. Fatteh serves as the Medical Director of the Recovery & Resilience Centers in San Francisco, CA. His dedication to a holistic approach to healthcare is evident through his additional training in Functional Medicine at the Kresser Institute in Kensington, CA.

Dr. Fatteh holds an M.D. degree from the Medical College of Pennsylvania and completed a premedical science program with honors at Lehigh University. His residency in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the Eastern Virginia Medical School further solidified his expertise in the field.

Licensed to practice medicine in California and Texas, with additional licenses in Arizona, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Washington, Dr. Fatteh is board-certified in Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation. He also holds certification in Pain Medicine from the American Boards of Anesthesiology and PM Parvez & R.

Beyond his professional achievements, Dr. Fatteh is recognized for his contributions to social impact, particularly in addressing the opioid crisis through initiatives like the "Heroes of the Opioid Crisis."

In a new development, Dr. Fatteh has signed on to join Medrina (medrina.com), marking a significant expansion of his role in the medical community. Medrina, a doctor-owned and operated organization, focuses on providing rehabilitative care to skilled nursing facilities, free-standing rehabilitation hospitals, and in-patient rehabilitation units to optimize patient functionality and improve health outcomes.

With his two decades of experience and board-certification in Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation, Dr. Fatteh will be instrumental in enhancing rehabilitation care in skilled nursing facilities throughout the San Francisco Bay Area starting in February 2024.
