

Paris Films Secures New Private Equity Funding to Propel Independent Film Projects

Distinguished independent film, television, and digital production company, proudly announces the successful acquisition of private equity for film financing.

SOUTHFIELD, MI, UNITED STATES, January 10, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Paris Films, an emerging powerhouse in the independent film scene, is excited to announce the securing of pivotal private equity funding. This milestone heralds a new era for the Detroit-based company, which has methodically developed a robust production and sales operation capable of captivating, underserved audiences with its highly effective productions.

We are actively seeking films that align with our brand and values.”

*Paris Jones, CEO Founder
Paris Films*

"Collaboration with our equity partners marks a transformative moment for Paris Films," states Paris Jones, Co-founder. "It enhances our commitment to delivering content that resonates deeply with our viewers, filling a void in the current media landscape."

Amid a series of strategic expansions, Paris Films has experienced remarkable economic growth in the independent market. This success stems from their intricate storytelling, streamlined production processes, and the development of key relationships with major streaming platforms and networks allowing them to conduct their own sales and retain a large stake in their own library.

The company's slate is a testament to its discerning eye for potential hits across television and film platforms, driven by its knack for recognizing and nurturing bold meaningful narratives. The recent accomplishments include securing independent financing from private equity and achieving notable milestones with their latest productions:
