Hospice care is a special kind of care that focuses on improving the quality of life for people who are experiencing an advanced, life-limiting illness or their caregivers. The main goal of hospice care services is to comfort the patients while allowing them to enjoy their last stage of life.

The main types of hospice care are nursing, medical supply, physician services, and other services. Nursing services refer to assigning case manager nurses to a hospice patient. Nursing services are used for nursing care, in which nurses visit patients one to three days a week. Caregivers can also access an on-call nurse 24 hours daily, depending on the need. Home settings, hospitals, specialty nursing homes, and hospice care centers are the applications of hospice care.
