Tran holds a Master's of Engineering and Cybersecurity degree from The George Washington University and a Bachelor's of Science degree in Accounting from the University of Maryland University College. Her educational background underscores her deep understanding of the criticality of securing businesses from external and internal threats, safeguarding the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of enterprise information.

Her expertise extends to IT security and cybersecurity engineering, governance, enterprise cloud strategy and architecture, data governance and architecture, as well as applications and systems development. Her ability to build trusted relationships with customers has been a hallmark of her career, and she will undoubtedly bring this skill to her role at J3 Consulting.

"Kim will be instrumental in overseeing all of our programs, driving business development, and making organizational enhancements," noted Ledford-Jones. "Her contributions will extend to designing customer solutions, overseeing projects and programs, and enhancing service delivery. She is already actively working on some internal operational improvements. We look forward to her leadership and the positive impact she will have on our organization."

Tran's appointment marks a significant step forward for J3 Consulting as the company continues to expand its capabilities and strengthen its position in the technology solutions industry. With her leadership, J3 Consulting is well-positioned to continue delivering exceptional value to its clients.
