"nandbox Native App Builder's main aim is not only to explore the unapparent yet exciting parts of no-code app development but also to make the most of it. In this latest set of templates, nandbox is not just introducing templates or blueprints for users; it is introducing an entire canvas that could be the jumpstart to turning user's idea into a successful reality. " Explained Hazem Maguid, CEO and founder of nandbox

The 15 new templates focus mainly on small businesses, as the majority fall under the categories of e-commerce and shopping. Among the many features included in these templates, the nandbox team is merely excited about certain ones. The m-commerce feature with collections and a plethora of payment gateways is, of course, making a special appearance as the main feature in all of the 15 templates, as well as the workflow features. Both will provide users with endless capabilities; the workflow will allow users to customize the UI and appearance, display additional information, and incorporate functions like submitting feedback.

"The new release is not about how many new templates nandbox just added; it is about what the user can achieve through. These new additions are pathways to revolutionize the visual development journey and fuel creativity and innovation for all developers and users using our platform." Added Hazem Maguid, CEO and founder of nandbox
