With portraits by Paul Robinson and interviews by Alan Uphold, TWELVE SOLDIERS uplifts, elevates and raises awareness for LGBTQ causes year-round. Spotlighting 12 leaders, in the LGBTQ community, TWELVE SOLDIERS appears monthly with profiles of personal action and collective change. Through images and interviews, TWELVE SOLDIERS showcases the lives of leaders working to change the world. Centering compassion, care and community, TWELVE SOLDIERS wins the battle for hearts and minds.

Opening with Oscar and Tony Award-winning producer Bruce Cohen ("American Beauty", "Rustin", "Milk", "Silver Linings Playbook"), veteran political activist, fundraiser and co-Chair of the President's Committee on the Arts, TWELVE SOLDIERS celebrates his life-long commitment to justice, civil rights and opportunity for all. Bruce explains his journey from 4-year-old canvasser to the heights of the entertainment business as the result of a steady focus on issues, characters and stories that matter.

Monthly updates feature luminaries like comedian Margaret Cho, fundraiser George Valencia and Fenty CEO Hilary Super among others, sharing their experience and achievement through conversation and photos. At year's end, all 12 of the profiles will be bound and published as a limited-edition volume, with proceeds distributed equally among the Soldiers' favorite charities.

In addition to the tribute of words and images, each honoree receives a $1000 donation to the charity of his, her or their choice from NEFT Vodka.
