The milestone comes as ACE Fire Protection celebrates years of service in the New York City area, providing businesses and residents with reliable and comprehensive fire extinguisher inspections. Their commitment to safety is demonstrated through their thorough inspection process, which ensures that all fire extinguishers meet the city's rigorous safety standards and are ready to perform in the event of an emergency.

"The safety of New Yorkers is our top priority," said the Chief Safety Officer of ACE Fire Protection. "Reaching this milestone is not just about the number of inspections we've conducted, but about the trust we've built within our community. We understand the critical role fire extinguishers play in safety, and our team is dedicated to providing services that people can rely on."

Fire extinguishers are an essential first line of defense in the event of a fire, especially in a city known for its iconic skyscrapers and bustling urban environment. Regular inspection and maintenance of these devices are crucial to ensure their functionality and effectiveness. ACE Fire

Protection employs a team of certified professionals trained to conduct detailed inspections and maintenance, adhering to the latest safety standards and regulations.

In addition to inspections, ACE Fire Protection offers a range of fire safety services, including extinguisher sales, installation, and training sessions for businesses and individuals. Their educational programs are designed to empower New Yorkers with the knowledge and skills to respond effectively to fire emergencies.
