Presents a Showcase of Indie Horror Films at 2024 Event

HAuNTcon, the iconic event known for its roots in the haunted attraction industry, is breaking new ground in 2024 by venturing into the realms of the indie film industry. This year, the conference presents an exclusive private screening of four feature films, promising attendees a thrilling experience like never before.

Hauntcon, the longest-running trade show in the haunt industry, has been a staple event for over 25 years. Attendees can expect to see the latest in haunt and horror products, services, and technologies, as well as attend workshops and seminars led by industry experts.

Indie Horror Film Lineup:

1. Haunt Season - Directed by Jake Jarvi

Recent acting school graduate Matilda takes on a role in a Halloween haunt attraction, only to find herself facing a costumed killer who turns fake injuries into gory reality. On Halloween night, Matilda and her newfound friends must

3. The Haunting of Cottonwood - Directed by Michael McLaren

David and Georgina's luck takes a dark turn when they inherit Cottonwood, an old Victorian house with an evil past. Unaware of the horrors within, the family must confront the malevolent forces tied to the house.

Showtime: Saturday, Feb 10th at 12pm EST

4. iPossessed - Directed and Produced by Carl Rimi

A group of friends makes a pact with a demon, only to realize that the demons they face might be the ones within. As they fight for their souls, they discover the true horror lies inside.

Showtime: Saturday, Feb 10th at 3pm EST
