A legal accusation and subsequent removal of a smog certification can ruin a busy auto repair business. New content helps the smog testing community learn how a defense lawyer can help fight an interim suspension order by the Bureau of Automotive Repair.

We've handled suspension orders that have included accusations for clean plugging, clean piping, and so forth.”

William Ferreira

California smog repair shops and smog technicians can review the updated content at <https://automotivedefense.com/about/services/bureau-of-automotive-repair-petition-for-interim-suspension-orders/>. If a smog testing professional receives an interim suspension order by the Bureau of Automotive Repair, it may be a surprise. Smog testing technicians could be accused of mismanaging tests such as brake and lamp inspections with little evidence. Timing can be critical to addressing the problem. An Administrative Law Judge could quickly suspend a license after five days of a scheduled hearing. The importance of a timely and professional response can mitigate the result of an interim suspension order. A team of attorneys dedicated to defending smog repair shops can help review a case and fight the charges. Automotive Defense Specialists are skilled attorneys familiar with the disciplinary processes by the Bureau of Auto Repair <https://bar.ca.gov/pdf/disciplinary-guide.pdf>. A professional lawyer can address accusations of fraud or gross negligence swiftly and help protect a smog license.

DON'T SETTLE FOR LESS AFTER AN INTERIM SUSPENSION ORDER BY THE BUREAU OF AUTOMOTIVE REPAIR

Here is the background on this release. Not taking a smog testing accusation seriously may be fatal to an auto repair shop's business. If a smog technician or auto shop owner decides to accept a disciplinary action to remain out of court, the result could be far more hurtful than expected. Cases involving interim suspension orders by the Bureau of Automotive Repair can result in harsh penalties. Probationary periods can last from two to five years. Indeed, no one should "settle" for an unfair judgment for any reason. Securing a smog-testing defense attorney can help mitigate a suspension order and keep a shop in business.
