Elevate Your Wellness Journey With Scholistico

"Embracing the opportunities in evolutive technology to improve user experience has always been a priority for us, and the development of our mobile application continues our commitment toward this initiative," stated Charles Lapointe, CEO of Scholistico.

The Scholistico Mobile App offers improved accessibility, allowing learners to progress seamlessly through their courses, interact with community members, and track learning schedules from the convenience of their smartphones. The app is available for both Android and iOS platforms.

The enhanced course catalog at Scholistico now includes more specializations such as the Art Therapy Practitioner Certification Course, Naturopathy Practitioner Certification Course, Holistic Nutrition Consultant Certification Course, Animal Communication Specialist Certification Course, and Holistic Health Practitioner Certification Course. All of these are recognized and accredited by esteemed associations such as NCCAP, IPHM, CMA, CPD, among others.

Since its inception, Scholistico has enrolled over 5000 learners across different countries, a testament to the growing popularity and credibility of the platform. All courses are professionally curated by subject matter experts in the field of Holistic Health and Wellness and tailored to meet the specific career goals of each learner.

The objective behind this expansion is to provide quality education seamlessly, encouraging learners to invest their time and efforts wisely to achieve their career objectives in the field of holistic health.

The incorporation of a mobile platform along with an expansion of the courses mirrors the company's commitment to not only empowering individuals but also catering to the evolving needs of the industry.
